

Re: Certified FF&E Cost Estimate - Providence ASC Equipment Plan

Date: 12/18/12

CON Staff:

The following certified FF&E cost estimate has been developed specifically for the Providence ASC project. I have carefully prepared and analyzed this estimate for its accuracy and thoroughness. I certify the cost estimate for the Providence ASC equipment plan to be $3,976,886.00

The equipment plan and certified FF&E cost estimate were established utilizing Attainia, a specialized software system for the management of healthcare capital equipment planning. According to the Attainia website, "Attainia software is the most widely used and highly customized equipment planning, budgeting and tracking software available. There are more than 2000 active projects totaling more than $30 billion being planned using Attainia software systems." The software allows Providence and other healthcare institutions to create project costs estimates without having to contact and receive estimates from each individual vendor. Attainia maintains a database of healthcare capital equipment and other items that include item descriptions, catalog numbers and up-to-date vendor supplied pricing. Within the database, Providence contract pricing is interfaced with the vendor provided cost information to create customized project cost estimates that reflects Providence purchasing agreements.

The certified FF&E cost estimate for the Providence ASC Equipment Plan is based on my experience with similar projects and upon the vendor supplied data contained in the Attainia database. I have been the Providence Health and Services Equipment Planning Manager for the Alaska Region since July 2012 and have worked as a supply chain professional for 17 years. I personally have been using Attainia as an equipment planner for Providence Health and Services since 2006. The same process and software has been used for previous Providence CON applications including Providence Generations, Providence Alaska Cottages and Providence Alaska Transitional Care Center.

Thank you!
